

```
'),o.close()}("https://assets.zendesk.com/embeddable_framework/main.js","numxl.zendesk.com"); /]]>/
```

Does any of NumXL functions raise an exception?

Last Modified on 03/18/2016 2:19 pm CDT

No. NumXL functions report the status of function via the return value. All exceptions (C++ or Win32 structured) are trapped (caught) and processed early on inside the function. In sum, you don't have to trap any exception while calling NumXL functions.

See Also

[template("related")]